

People are talking!

educators recognize

Our teachers and paraprofessionals agree that their training was some of the most valuable they've received in their careers...

This social skills curriculum will quickly become the gold standard.

(Thomas J, Executive Director, former Superintendent)

I saw first-hand that when a social emotional curriculum is implemented properly, students are more successful because they are more available to learn.

(Ana L, classroom teacher)

The program has such a powerful message of acceptance and compassion. My students quickly become comfortable taking a risk and accepting different points of view.

(Leo H, classroom teacher)

It gives students the tools to recognize how their behavior affects others and to better self-regulate within the classroom.

(Diane P, Speech Language Pathologist)

It's easy to implement and students leave every group feeling successful, confident, and excited for the next session.

(Cassandra A, Counselor)

Teachers are often asked to offer social skills but are not always given the proper training or tools... to see it in action is just that AHA MOMENT I have been looking for!

(Shanel J, classroom teacher)

students learn

It made me feel like learning social skills is fun and I didn't even know that!

I learned ways to keep calmed down in school.

I learned how to control myself.

I learned about eye contact and to actually pay attention and listen to each other.

I learned how to be a better friend.

I learned how to keep out of trouble and not fight with other people.

I learned respect and how to be flexible.

I learned how to stay focused and make friends.

I learned how to stay quiet when someone is talking.

I learned about my reactions and behavior with other students and friends.

I learned to interact in groups.

I learned about my brain and my heart.
